Short Bio: Color has always evoked a visceral experience for me and I love to capture that in my work. I am endlessly inspired by nature and the color palettes found not only right outside but also from more exotic regions around the world. My work blends color, natural, geometric and design elements taking inspiration from my background in fashion and textile design. I am a self-taught artist and started exploring painting with acrylics in my basement apartment in Washington, D.C. ten years ago. Since then, I have created my art with acrylics, watercolor, ink and pencil on canvas, paper or wood. I grew up in Southern California and after living in the Midwest and on the East Coast, have put roots down in Seattle with my husband, young son and two dogs.

Dale Schlotzhauer

Social Media: <https://corinthiacreations.com/>

Short Bio: Dale grew up in Chehalis with a couple of forays to Germany and Iran where she graduated from high school. She went to college in Seattle and Minnesota. No matter where she lived though, Seattle is always home to her. Dale left her corporate career in 2015 to try her hand at real estate, a long time interest. In 2018, she let her inner artist out for a stroll with a little spray paint on vases, moving on to lamps and furniture. Spray paint quickly gave way to acrylics and Unicorn Spit gel stain and paint. Her vases started selling and she had added canvases to her shopping list. The next thing she knew she was moving her spare bedroom furniture out and her painting supplies and table in from the garage. Her inner artist isn't so inner anymore! When she's not covered in paint, or out with her clients, Dale sings in the Seattle Symphony Chorale and the Westside Presbyterian Church choir. She plays piano, celtic harp and ukulele too.

Kimberly Leo

Social Media: Kimberly Leo <http://kjleodesigns.com>

Short Bio: Kimberly Leo is originally from New Orleans, Louisiana, and has been living in Greater Seattle since 2000. She has a degree in Fine Arts from LSU. Kimberly has a long history with oil painting and abstract landscapes but has recently become obsessed with working with resin and mixed medium. Her art is inspired by natural shapes, crystals, the moon, ebb and flow, friendship, and the cycle of life.

Artist Statement: I am inspired by natural shapes, crystals, the moon, ebb and flow, and the cycle of life. This work allows me to live in the moment and provides an escape. When I am creating I am one with the moment and when I am not creating, I am dreaming about my future pieces. Crafting my art soothes my soul and makes me feel complete. Creating these pieces is therapy for me.

The process of working with resin intrigues me because of the precise need for measurement when mixing the resin and the limited application time involved with each piece. I feel a certain stress because of the minimal work time before the resin begins to set. But this stress leads to a hopeful anticipation and excitement to see how the resin takes shape and flows on it's own before settling down and curing. Resin does what it does and that may be why I am so obsessed. Even the most well thought out plans change, as the resin does it's resin thing. It is because of this that I love working in this medium. The unpredictability mirrors life but it all works out in the end. I also love the freedom to experiment with color, line, crystal, stone, glass, gold-leaf, glitter, and basically anything I choose to mix into the sticky medium. The final result, a shiny, sparkly, treasure to the eye.

Social Media: @brookewestlund Brooke Westlund Studio + Gallery <http://brookewestlund.com>

Short Bio: Brooke Westlund, a native Seattleite, has always loved art. She studied Photography, Art History, and Business at Western Washington University. Following graduation, Brooke worked under artist James Jensen as an apprentice and was inspired to pursue painting. She has slowly developed her unique style and built her career as an abstract and mixed media painter, exploring many styles and mediums over the years. Her work explores her love of life, the beautiful city of Seattle and all that it encompasses: texture, simplicity, complexity, movement, color, spontaneity, awareness and chaos. Brooke's mixed media and abstract paintings show her world through her photography, different types of paints, dry pigments, stamps, encyclopedia cut outs, high gloss varnishes, and found materials. She blends them with large brushstrokes, splatters, drips and bold colors.

Brooke has shown her work in many venues across the Seattle area. She has worked on multiple corporate commission projects for interior designers as well as individuals to create the perfect painting for their home. She opened her public studio and gallery in the eclectic Pike Place Market in 2011 where she spends most of her time creating and showing her latest work.

Short Bio: My name is Kyle Schumacher. I make a wide variety of whimsical glass pieces, from tiny ornamental sun-catchers to functional pieces for the home. Most of my ideas come to me in quiet moments while kayaking or even during my sleep – so I keep a notebook nearby. Creating custom orders helps foster a deeper connection with customers, which I am always seeking. I am grateful that customers trust me with their personal stories, cherished memories, and exciting celebrations. Knowing that a piece I made will be in someone's life as part of their decor brings complete satisfaction as a designer and maker. Handmade means buying products that are made to last, directly from people who love what they do as makers and take pride in their products.

Social Media: @bisforbrigitte <https://bisforbrigitte.tumblr.com/>

Short Bio: Greetings, my name is Brigitte! A pediatric nurse by day, I am a West Seattle native who trades in syringes for paint brushes in my off time. I've always enjoyed playing with color and when I became a nurse 6 years ago I found art to be a therapeutic relief after stressful shifts at work. What started as a hobby is now my obsession. Today my medium of choice is alcohol inks, acrylics and resin. In my process, I enjoy listening to music while I splash colorful inks on my paper and manipulate the flow of the inks with a heat gun, hair dryer or my own lungs. Once the ink dries, I draw contrasting acrylic lines over the inks channeling different energies, vibes and feeling from my daily interactions and experiences. These abstract formations evoke unique feelings and ideas to each viewer. My goal is to inspire my viewers to think more abstractly and find happiness in the bright color and movement my pieces display.

Email: elenajungleart@gmail.com

Phone: 2062906710

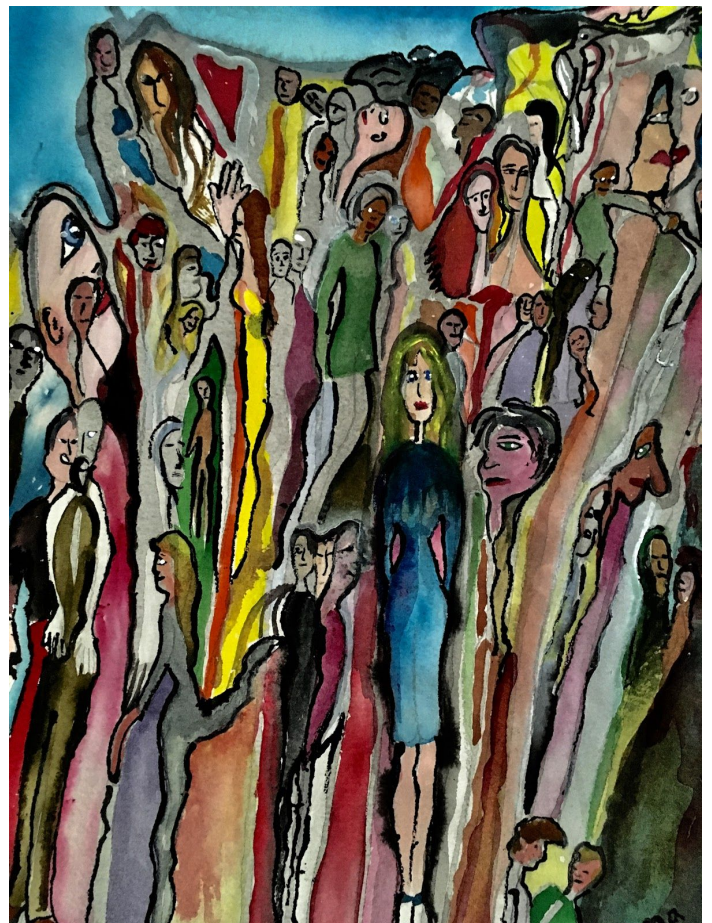

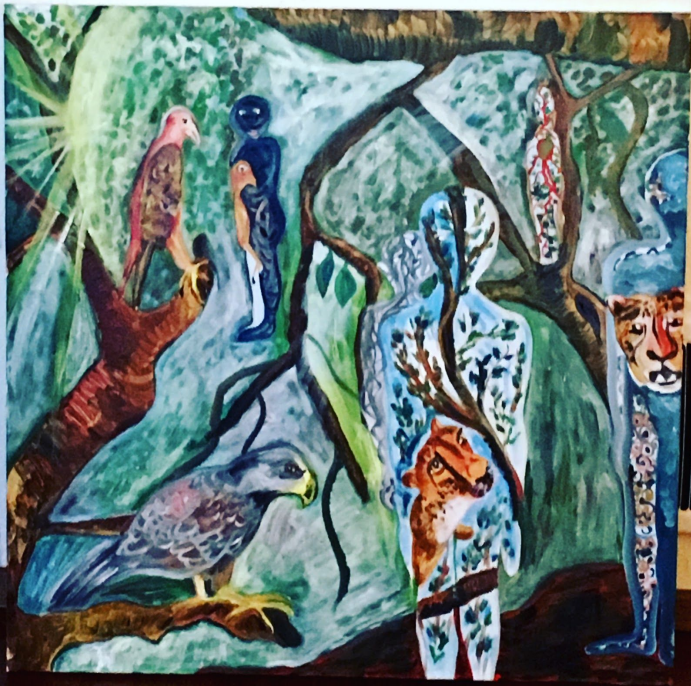

Social Media: <http://elenagnaskova.wixsite.com/website>

Short Bio: Elena Naskova uses watercolor, acrylic, and oil to explore the inside and outside world, so she can notice, understand and connect better.

She immigrated to America from Macedonia when she was 25. She joined a ceramic studio in Los Angeles where she created ceramic art for many years. Eventually she had to sell her kiln and wheel because she moved to Seattle. In Seattle she started experimenting with paintings, using watercolor, acrylic, and recently oil.

Elena paints portraits, nature, human bodies, and she loves the freedom of abstract expression. She likes to explore different variations of an idea, or theme, by creating a series of paintings about the same subject matter.

Because of her Slavic and Eastern Orthodox heritage, some of her work, especially her portraits are influenced by iconography.

<http://www.magdalenacooney.net>

Short Bio: Despite being born into a repressive communist regime, Magdalena Cooney was destined to become a painter. Growing up in a children's puppet theatre, her parents provided a magical cocoon, creating an alternate world marked by whimsy, fantasy and larger-than-life characters. Self-taught Cooney credits her parents and their cadre of artist friends as her first and most important teachers.

Her father, a set designer and puppet maker, and her mother, a graphic designer, influenced Cooney's ability to create amidst a culture of censorship. The theatre was always Cooney's "happy place," and she believes it is the reason her paintings lean towards the evocative, non-objective rather than specific. From an early age, Cooney was acutely aware of the competing forces of dark and light at play in her life. These contrasts are apparent in the opposing hues seen in many of Cooney's paintings. Her choice of color palettes also reflects her two homes: one echoes the famous red and orange rooftops of her birthplace, Czechoslovakia (now the Czech Republic), and the other is inspired by the cool grey and blue tones of her current home in Seattle, Washington. The contrast in colors moves through Cooney's paintings as she expertly blends and layers to create fascinating, sensual swirls of emotion and texture. In her latest experimentation, Cooney uses unusual painting tools to create her large canvases for a complex textured look.

Not interested in shock value, Cooney says her paintings feel like home, a place in your heart that is precious and where you feel most like yourself.

Drawing and painting was my favorite entertainment as a child. I remember the excitement of watching architectural drawings of my father at about 5 years of age and later the fun of drawing my friends portraits and sometimes helping with the homework at the Art lesson in exchange for some help with my Math homework. After high school I followed my calling and graduated as a teacher of Arts and Interior Design, at the Pedagogical University "Ion Creanga" in Chisinau, Moldova. I'm inspired by the beauty of the North West and by regular people that surround me. The contrast of colors and confident shapes are representing my passion for life, positiveness, and in the same time meekness and thankfulness. I hope you enjoy my Art.

The dawn of the digital landscape in art was ushered in by 8-bit video game platforms – the first of their kind. The pixelated imagery was wildly advanced, showcasing eccentric characters in dreamlike spaces, backlit by the electric glow of screen-generated color. His latest work is an extension of that imagery and homage to a time when a primitive new medium was captivating the imagination of an entire generation.

Short Bio: Zoee is a watercolor painter, currently based in Seattle. She is most focused on colorful and lively nature scenes. She grew up in a beautiful southern town in China, where raised her passion in visual art and nature. She was trained strictly under a professional local artist in her teenage years, practicing still life using pencil. After grown up, she chose to pursue her passion of art in CGGT program in University of Pennsylvania, which is a program teaching gaming and animation technology. After several years as an engineer in the gaming industry, experiencing young professional struggles of juggling work life balance in a high paced urban life, she shifted her passion of art to paint lively scenery she sees. Painting's therapeutic power has helped her greatly when dealing with modern working-class struggles, and she wants to share the healing power with anyone else who needs it.

Short Bio: Harrison, originally from California, distills complex moments of human emotion in minimalist surrealism through her unique pop and street perspective.

The first image included in the submission are 3 paintings of a series where flowers are anthropomorphized to unite viewers by transcending race, gender, and other social constructs. This image is of a showing at the Brick Lane Gallery in London, England in 2019.

The second image is another popular painting abstractly capturing the complex human emotion of love.

Harrison is a prolific painter and photographer with multiple themed series and a variety of styles ranging from nature and travel photography to abstract juxtapositions. Regardless of the piece or format, Harrison's art is evocative yet accessible, powerful yet fun.
